

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, March 10.—A committee of the House of Commons is to make an inquiry into the rising cost of farm implements. This promise was made by the Minister of Agriculture at the conclusion of a brief debate on the subject. Prices for 1935 are from $5 to $18 higher for a wide range of farm implements, as compared with prices for the past four or five years. The House appeared to be unanimous in supporting an investigation, although the member for Brantford, W. R. MacIsaac, urged that there had been plenty of investigations recently, that the average increase in the price of implements was only three per cent, and that it was important that workers in the implement factories should receive a fair wage. It was also brought out that the implement companies had not been making any profits in recent years. One member urged that the real reason for the plight of the implement company was the destruction of purchasing power of the farmer. When agricultural prices rose through treaties and other means, the demand for implements would go up and everyone would be better off.

Want Aid for Sugar Beets
A delegation of members representing areas where sugar beets can be successfully raised waited upon the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Agriculture last week to ask assistance for the industry. One suggestion was that a rebate be given direct to the beet farmer of a cent a pound, which is the present export price for sugar. This would be a direct subsidy to the farmer and would, it was urged, do the most good.

Other members opposed this on the ground that a direct subsidy given to the beet grower would open the door for a flood of similar suggestions regarding other branches of the farming industry, and other industries. These members, as an alternative, asked that in the case of sugar beets the present one cent per pound tax be removed altogether. In either event the cost to the country would be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 per year. At present Canada supplies about 12 per cent of her sugar requirements from her own beets, and the remainder is made from raw sugar imported from sugar cane, largely from the West Indies.

The government did not say whether assistance would be granted or not. One problem is that if the protection given the Canadian beet grower increased, the shippers of raw sugar may lower their prices sufficient to offset it.

Canada's Voting Machinery
Canada's whole voting system and franchise machinery is being examined with a view to improvement. A committee of 30 members of the House met for the first time last week to consider the matter, learn what is done in other countries, and make recommendations for suitable changes.

One improvement desired is a system of voting which would ensure a more accurate reflection of the popular vote in the membership of the House of Commons. To secure this, proportional representation and the transferable vote will be considered. The "basic list" machine continues to be used for the registration of voters, which was started about two years ago, has proved very expensive and will probably be abandoned. In former days a new list was made before each general election. The "absentee vote" machine is also being considered. Dalemead Hall was the scene of a pleasant function Monday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Hahle were honored on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary postponed from Feb. 13th. About sixty guests and a supper sponsored by the U.F.A. and U.P.W.A. Mr. Harold Phillips, president of the U.F.A., gave a pointed address and also Mrs. M. Phillips, president of the U.P.W.A. who presented Mr. and Mrs. Hahle on behalf of the guests with a beautiful coffee and tea set and tray. Reminiscences of Mr. Hahle and New York City, former home of Mrs. Hahle were given by J. C. Hagg, also an address by Mr. S. M. Newton. With best wishes from all their friends the evening was closed.

The blingo and dance given by the juniors on Wednesday by the junior U.P.W.A. was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all.

The joint U.F.A. and U.P.W.A. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. M. Phillips with a very large attendance. The reports of the convention were given by the delegate from Wm. Winters and Mr. L. C. Hagg.

KIND WORDS AND KIND DEEDS
Kind words are like an oasis to a thirsty desert traveller. They are a delight to a diligent worker, and more very many more people are helped and cheered by hearing them than are adversely influenced. Hence in this connection we wish to pass on to Elsie Carlson the very warm praise we have heard of her very obliging and interested answering of the many phone calls that have been made at fairly late hours on nights when our boys have been playing hockey either at home or elsewhere. Alert at her post cheerfully answering the oft repeated question, she has won the gratitude of many a stay-at-home.

It was not the dominating, we believe either of the other girls of the local "Hello Office" who have given similar service. It just chance to fall into the lot to be on duty at these hours.

And to the several kindly, thoughtful gentlemen who were waiting in their cars at the school in Monday's blizzard to drive the children to their several homes the "very warm gratitude" of the parents is expressed.

"Little deeds of kindness"
"Little words of love."

CARSELAND
A recent social event was the dinner in honor of Mrs. Delmer Black, one Miss Grace McKinnon, held at the home of Mrs. W. G. Gilson. A large number of friends gathered and many beautiful and merrimental presents were conveyed to the bride in an umbrella downpour. Mrs. Forster made the presentation and the bride's mother repaid suitably on her behalf.

BAINTREE
The district was shocked to hear of the death of Mr. Baintree at Calgary Sunday. Mrs. Baintree was an old time resident of the district and was an active worker of the Order of the Eastern Star, Lockwood. She leaves her husband and a son, Donald. The community expresses its deepest sympathy for the bereaved family.

A wedding of interest took place in Calgary on March 2nd, when Mrs. M. A. Stiles of Strathmore, the bride of Mr. Leonard Edgar of the Eastern Star, Lockwood. The marriage took place at the Pro-Cathedral, Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar will reside on Mr. Edgar's farm at Baintree.

Twent cold and stormy have spread through this district during the past week. Many people especially the children have been confined to their homes.

A number of young people gathered at the home of Howard Logan, to celebrate the birthday of Mr. Edgar. After a great deal of music making outside the party entered the home and games and dancing an enjoyable evening was spent. The young people received the congratulations of their friends with the wish of many years of prosperity and happiness.

Among those from Baintree seen at the Strathmore-Cannore hockey game in Calgary were Mr. and Mrs. May and Mr. G. Porteous.

Word has been received that Mr. Glover of the Calgary Normal school will receive a week of practice teaching at the local school commencing April 20th.

I like a city that is worn and old
Where stones are followed by the press of feet
Where tables sag, and open doorway

A store of legends, where a narrow

Will twist and turn before me leisurely,
And windows stare at me like tired

I know these cities and I love them well
Because they seem to me
Like men who grow more feeble yet
more wise
With nothing much to do, but much to tell.

Since the American Revolution there has been little in the circumstances of the country to call out the higher sentiments. The effect of continued prosperity is the same on nations as on individuals—it lessens the nobler facilities undeveloped. The superficial diffusion of knowledge, unless attended by a corresponding deepening of its sources, is likely to vulgarize rather than raise the thought of a nation, depriving it of another sort of education through sentiments of reverence, and leading the multitude to believe themselves capable of judging what they but dimly discern. In a word the tendency of circumstances, has been to make our people superficial, irreverent and more anxious to get a living than to live mentally and morally.

(Written by Margaret Fuller in 1841) a statement that would hardly be challenged 90 years later!

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Final installment

"You see there is one difference between public and private ownership. Private ownership can draw a decently capitalized sheet of bankruptcy proceedings over its mistakes and start afresh with the property on a recapitalized basis with past mistakes forgotten and forgiven except perhaps by the investors who lost their shirts in the process. The Canadian National, however, like Christian in Virginia's Progress, must see the burden not only of its own mistakes but also suffer for the sins of predecessor private companies.

"Some have said they would gladly sell the Canadian National for $100,000,000, presumably feeling that by so doing the country would be better off financially. Nothing is further from the truth. I have pointed out that the Canadian National has, except in the extreme depths of the depression, never failed to make some return upon its invested capital. The property might be disposed of for $100 and with it of course would go the net revenue, but the disposal of the property in this manner would not carry with it relief from the guarantees which the people of Canada gave upon the bonds in the hands of the public—that guarantee would be continued, the only difference would be that by the sale of the property for $100 the people of Canada would have the obligation of paying under the guarantee without enjoying the net available for interest, which has been as high as six million dollars in a single year—more than sufficient to pay all interest charges on the outstanding bonds of the system at that time.

"Certain critics of the Canadian National and of government ownership are fond of pointing the finger of scorn at a comparison of the operating ratio of the Canadian National with the operating ratio of other large railway systems. Relevant factors all need to be taken into account before one could draw any inference as to relative operating efficiency from a spread in the operating ratios. When thoroughly looked into, the conclusion must reach is that the spread in the operating ratios arises mainly from differences in the characteristics of the properties and not from a difference in efficiency. The staff of officers and employees of the C. N. R. will star comparison with the best."

Replying to charges that the Canadian National pays little or no taxes as compared with private industry, Mr Fairweather said that the direct taxation paid by the C. N. R. is: taxes amounting to $2,200,000 a year, as compared with the C. P. R. payments of $1,100,000, and indirect taxation, including sales tax, excise tax, etc., to an estimated amount of $14,000,000 a year on the C. N. R. and to $10,000,000 a year on the C. P. R. The total tax payments of the two systems being $22,200,000 for the C. N. R. and $11,100,000 for the C. P. R. Mr Fairweather said that attempts had been made to promote the misconception that the capital expenditures on the Canadian National Railways, amounting to $422,000,000 from 1925 to date, had been wasted. He contended that the largest part of this capital was wisely expended and had heavier rails, stronger bridges and better locomotives and cars had been procured, the operating costs of the property at the present time would be at least $312,000,000 a year more than they are, an amount equal to the interest on the capital spent.

"Speaking as an economist," continued Mr Fairweather, "I find the assertion that there is a railway problem so serious as to threaten the existence of the country somewhat at variance with the facts. The assertion were true, one would expect to find Canada burdened with very high unit transportation costs. Quite on the contrary one finds that the economic unit cost of railway transportation in Canada is as low as that of any other comparable country in the world. One would expect too to find a country in which the ratio of its wealth to its railway capital was low; quite on the contrary one finds the ratio of national wealth to invested railway capital in Canada to be high. In fact, for every dollar expended on railway development the Canadian wealth has been increased by reason of such development by an average figure of over $10, and this National wealth could never have been brought into being without the railway development."

THE FLAG

The following excerpts are taken from a paper received by Mr. E. A. Biddle and given by Major Thompson M.C.V.I. of Charlottetown, P. E. I. We regret the paper was too long to publish in full. It is entitled "The Flag."

What is this Flag of Britain? Its history composition and significance? And the correct use of "The Flag." What is this Flag that has braved the battle and the breeze for a thousand years? Why too is the senior officer of British worship the last to leave her and the first to board her? Why is it permissible for the officers of a British ship to sit, while they drink the toast to His Majesty? To seek the history of the British Flag is to hear the voices of the past and realize the sublime motives which have comprised her evolving as "The Union Jack" flags are very old. We read in the Bible of The Standard of the Assyrians.

If all the Flags of the world were placed side by side, one could point to the Union Jack and say that FLAG stands for more than any other. By reason of the fact that it records its on its folds the steady and progressive growth of a great nation, having a system of constitutional government which cannot be surpassed by any other country in the world.

The Flags of the Nations which form the Union Jack are the St. George's Cross of England, the St. Andrew's Cross of Scotland and St. Patrick's Cross of Ireland.

It was not easy to combine the three crosses so that each should be distinct, and at the same time retain its original ground, yet it has been done.

It is of particular importance to notice that when properly hoisted, the broad white Cross of St. Andrew is uppermost in the quarters next the staff. In the order of the inclusion of the countries in the Union it is historically inaccurate to have the Jack either constructed or flown upside down.

Do not dip the Flag to any person or thing. It should be displayed only between sunrise and sunset. Never allow the Flag to touch the ground or trail in water. Ensure that the broad white stripe of St. Andrew is next the masthead. When necessary to fly a flag at half mast the Flag should first be raised to the mast head then slowly dropped to a position just within the width of the Flag, from the masthead. When Flags are displayed against a wall make sure that the Flags are in such position that if a mast or staff were used, the staff would be at the Flag's right, or the mast head at the Flag's right.

Do not use the Flag as part of a costume. The Beaver and the Maple Leaf lend themselves for this purpose. Do not put lettering on a Flag not tack advertising to a Flagpole. Never was tale so little, never was sea so lone.

But o'er the sand and the palm tree An English Flag was flown.

Hence to rightly honor the Flag, we must be impelled to join in the appeal of the Bishop of Exeter.

Give us men,
Men from every rank,
Fresh and free and frank,
Men of thought and reading,
Men of love and feeling,
Men of loyal breeding.

The Nation's welfare speeding
Men of faith and not of fiction
Men of lofty aims and action
Give us men— I say again,

NIGHTINGALE

Fanny May Carlson

Once again gloom settled on this community when word came through that Fanny Carlson had passed away. Fanny had not been well for several days and on Saturday became very ill. She was rushed to the Holy Cross hospital where she passed away on Monday.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. R. Winter at Jacques Funeral home on Thursday at 2 p.m. Interment followed in the Union cemetery.

At the time of her death Fanny was fourteen years of age. She had a happy sunny disposition. Nothing was ever too much trouble for her. She had a lovely voice and last summer won second prize in grade VIII singing at the musical festival. She will be greatly missed by her family and her school mates. She leaves to mourn her loss her parents, four brothers and her grandparents.

The many beautiful flowers sent over a token of the sincere affection of her many friends. The deep sympathy of all the people of this neighborhood goes to the bereaved family. Pall bearers were Mr. Dick Jensen, Mr. Southall, Cecil Thurston and Vernon Harriman.

Valley Garden school was closed on Thursday in the respect to the memory of one of its pupils Fanny Carlson.

Miss Florence Gibson is enjoying a month's holiday visiting with friends in Winnipeg.

Jack Stensley spent last week end with friends in Calgary (singular or plural).

Mr. Leonard Hilton returned from Maple Creek Sask. where she spent several weeks visiting her parents. A truck load of hockey fans, numbering some over twenty went to Calgary on Monday night to enjoy the Strathmore-Glendon match.
